

The legal description of the boundary usually begets the question, "Where, in layman's terms, is the qualifying boundary?" The attached graphic answers that question according to information gathered from the Escambia County Property Appraiser's office. In narrative terms a layman's answer could read like:

Southern boundary: Water's edge running from western boundary to eastern boundary.

Eastern boundary: Imaginary line along the eastern edge of the "Snug Harbor" development property line running from southern boundary to northern boundary.

Northern boundary: Imaginary line along the northern edge of the Vizcaya development property line running from eastern boundary to western boundary.

Western boundary: Imaginary line running down the middle of Leeward Drive running from the northern boundary to the southern boundary.
